Under superannuation law, you must be eligible to make a contribution to this account. The table below shows the circumstances under which you are eligible to make each type of contribution. Please tick the circumstances that apply to you.

Contribution types	Personal contributions (including those made by a self employed individual) ¹	Mandated employer contributions (award and superannuation guarantee contributions)	Non-mandated employer contributions (including directed termination payments)	Eligible spouse contributions [#]
<input type="checkbox"/> You are under age 75	✓	✓	✓	✓
<input type="checkbox"/> You are 75 years of age or over ²	✗	✓	✗	✗

[#] If a spouse contribution is made, you confirm the person making the contribution is either legally married to you, living with you on a genuine domestic basis as a couple or in a relationship that is registered under a prescribed State/Territory government relationship register and is not entitled to a tax deduction for the contribution.

² Other than for SG and Award employer contributions or downsizer contributions, the contribution must be received on or before the day that is 28 days after the end of the month in which you turn 75 (ie if your birthday is in February, the contribution must be received by 28 March).

Definitions of contributions

All contributions are preserved.

Additional employer contributions are contributions made by the employer which are more than the minimum Superannuation Guarantee contributions (see below).

Employer superannuation guarantee contributions are the minimum contributions payable by employers. For the latest superannuation guarantee rate, please refer to the www.ato.gov.au. Superannuation paid under an industrial award or agreement is also classified as this type of contribution.

Personal deducted contributions are contributions made by employees that will be claimed as a tax deduction. Most employees don't qualify to claim a tax deduction for their own contributions as they must get 90% of their income from self-employment.

Personal undeducted contributions are contributions made by employees, and won't be claimed as a tax deduction by the employee.

Salary sacrifice contributions are contributions made by the employer from an employee's pre-tax salary. The employee sacrifices part of their salary and their employer pays an equivalent amount as a superannuation contribution. Although this type of contribution is considered to be an employer contribution, it belongs to the employee.

Spouse undeducted contributions are contributions made by a person legally married to the member or living with the member on a genuine domestic basis as a couple or in a relationship that is registered under a prescribed State/Territory government relationship register. These contributions are not eligible to be claimed as a tax deduction. Some people may be eligible for a tax offset for this type of contribution.
